Instrument Recognition Software
Instruction Manual

This User Manual consists of a general description of a Login/Registration Page, its different components and sections, its functions, and its operating description.

Table of Contents

Part 1 - Login/Registration Component Description:

1. Name - The Name section is where the User can enter their Login Username or the Username they wish to Register as.

2. Password - The Password section is where the User can enter their Login Password or the Password they wish to Register with.

3. Login Button - The Login Button allows the user to access their Account Information, given the Name (Username) and Password they entered matches the Name (Username) and Password they used for Registration.

4. Register Button - The Register Button allows the user to create a private account using their desired Name (Username) and Password entered using the same form.
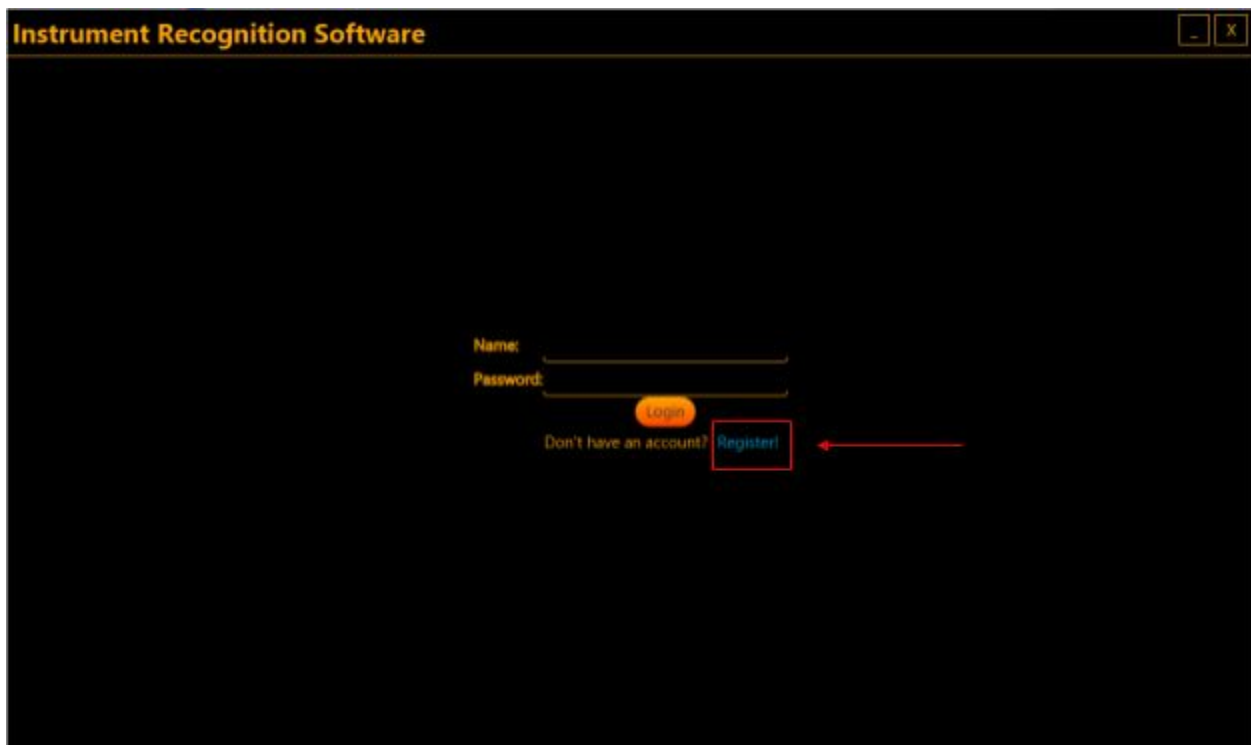

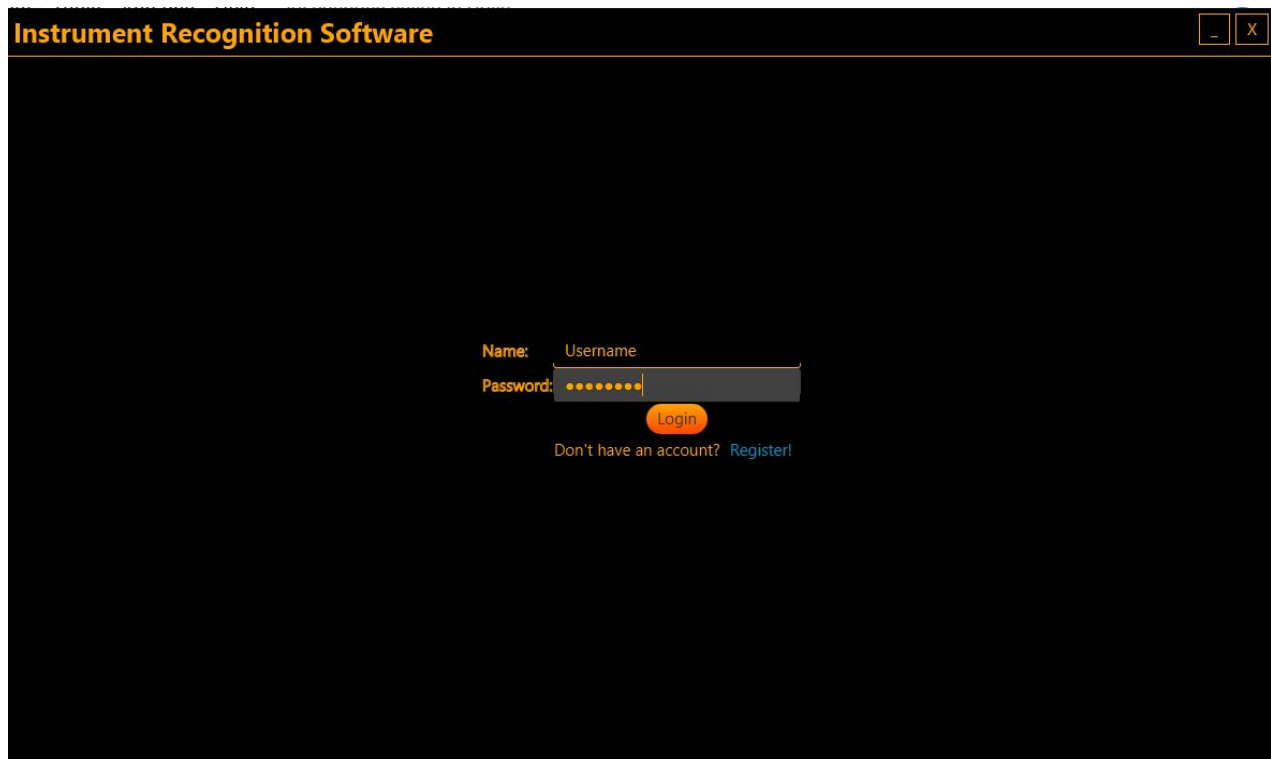

Part 2 - Instructions for Registration:

1. Upon opening the Software, the User can find the Login/Registration prompt in the middle of the screen.

2. The User must then enter their desired Username in the Name section.
    a. If the Username they wish to Register as is already taken by another User, they will be prompted to re-enter a different Username.

3. After successfully entering a unique Username, the User must enter their desired Password in the Password section.
    a. The Password can be the same as another User's Password, but it is recommended to have a strong, unique Password.
    b. The Password will be encrypted for privacy.

4. After successfully entering a unique Username and Password, the user must click the 'Register!' button to finalize their Registration

Part 3 - Instructions for Login:

1. Upon opening the Software, the User can find the Login/Registration prompt in the middle of the screen.

2. The User must then enter their registered Username in the Name section.

3. After entering the Username, the User must enter the corresponding Password for their Username in the Password section.

4. Finally, the user must click the 'Login' button to access their account.
    a. If the Username or Password does not match, the user will be prompted to re-enter their Username and Password.

Instrument Recognition Software   _   X

Name: Username
Password: ••••••••
           Login
Don't have an account? Register!